

Monday 4th May 2020

Good morning all and happy Monday. May the fourth be with you 😊

Hope you have had a lovely weekend and enjoyed writing your story.

The next two weeks we will be looking at creating an information text about an animal we might see in Africa.

Did you know there are over 1,000 types of mammals and over 2000 types of birds in Africa? Imagine all the ones you could write about. My favourite animal in Africa is an elephant.

Today we are just going to read an information text about an animal and look at the kind of information we may need.

Please read the text and then think carefully about the kind of information you may need to put in an information text. Remember this type of text would only have information that is true/real information.

Activity

Using pencil colours/highlighters, colour the following:

Heading in blue

Sub heading in yellow

Introduction Paragraph in green

Photos/pictures a green border

Interesting fact/did you know in pink

You can check the answer page to make sure it looks similar to mine.

if you are not able to print, please don't worry. Just copy an example of the feature into your books. 😊

Word definitions:

Habitat – where they live

Diet – what they eat

Appearance – what they look like

Movement – how they move around
